

POPOVER

Popovers are small overlays that open on demand, usually when the user clicks a button. They let users access supplementary content and actions without cluttering the page.

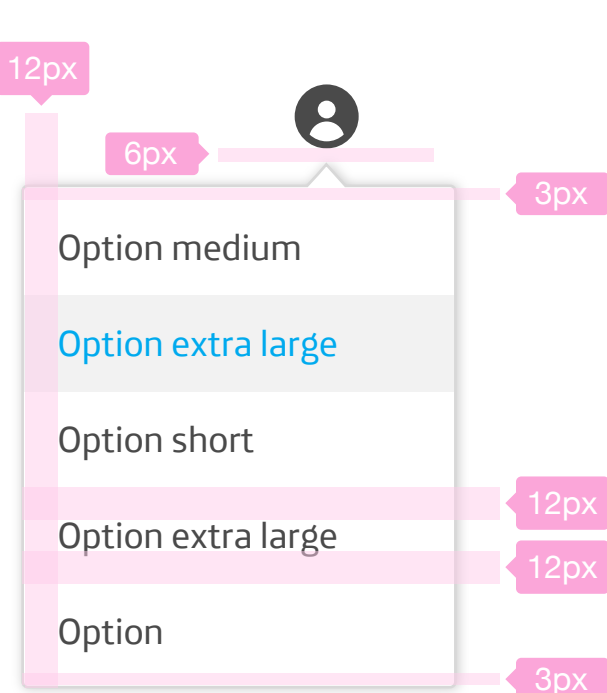

The position of popover is flexible and will change depending on how close the element is to the edge of the screen. Use popover to identify or add a small amount of information to an element.

VARIANTS

For the use case where there is more options, the popover would be divided in two columns (or more).
